What makes Mark Binder worth inviting to your school?

Experience — more than twenty years of programs in schools, libraries, theaters and festival for nearly 100,000 listeners of all ages

Stories! With a repertoire of 157 stories, Mark has a tale for every occasion and every theme. And if you want something special, because he's a writer, he'll be happy to create one.

Books! Mark is the author of dozens of books and audio books for every age ranging from retelling of classics to traditional fiction to outrageous tall tales.

Education — Mark studied mythology at Columbia University, storytelling with Spalding Gray, mime and dance with the Adaptors Movement Theater and has an MA in English and Writing, Acting and Directing from Rhode Island College and the Trinity Rep Conservatory.

Dedication — Every year Mark gives more than 100 presentations across the United States and around the world. Every year he creates a new project, whether it's a printed book or an audio book, an ebook or a play...

Current — Stories may be seasonal, adapting to the weather. They can also address issues, soothe fears and inspire change.

Vital — Mark's stories are always fresh and new, whether he's retelling a traditional tale for the thousandth time or sharing a brand new adventure from his most recent book.

Everyone listens and is transported — students, teachers, parents, staff — even the lunch ladies and gentlemen!

and many many more
for every grade and level

The power of storytelling

stories inspire reading and writing
stories connect cultures
stories inspire and break the molds
stories build character

When you invite Mark Binder to your school he will share his excitement and love of both traditional tales and original fictions.

He will tell stories that your students will remember, and leave them ready to read, write, hear and make their own

Stories don't need any equipment
Paper. Pens or pencils. A voice.

(Of course, Mark does have an amazing sound system, so he can be heard regardless of acoustics)

Sometimes it's so quiet you can hear a single cough

Stories define who we are Stories create who we will be
Stories tell us why we matter
And they are fun, funny and exciting!
